In today's fast-changing world of Computer Science, the fields of Data Science, Artificial Intelligence (AI), Database Management Systems (DBMS), Networking, and Development are booming. These areas all work together to create amazing technology. I'm really excited about being part of this journey. I'm committed to learning and growing in these areas so I can help make cool things happen. My goal is to be a valuable part of the ever-evolving world of technology by understanding these different parts and how they fit together.
